Singing that song

Kicking off Catholic Education Week, St. George Catholic School choir members Emma Morningstar, Christiane Nowak and Kylie Humphreys could be found at Gilmore Lodge on Tuesday, treating residents to a number of songs they have been working on. The theme of the week is 'Rejoicing in Hope.'

Return of racing

113th season at Racetrack comes flying out of the gate last Saturday

Kris Dubé
The Times

For the 113th year in a row, it was opening day at the Fort Erie Racetrack.

On Saturday, thoroughbred racing fans of all levels could be found at the historic border oval, placing bets and enjoying the overall atmosphere at the track, considering for the last three years, people involved in the industry locally were uncertain whether they would be returning for another season due to financial hardships.

But in December of last year, the Fort Erie Live Racing Consortium struck a deal with the provincial government and agreed to help keep the track alive, by committing to $5.6 million dollars for the next three years.

The track is now operated by the Consortium, made up of representatives from the Fort Erie Economic Development and Tourism Corporation, the Town of Fort Erie and the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association.

The first race of the day coming down the stretch last Saturday, on the opening day of the 113th season at the Fort Erie Racetrack. The No. 2 horse "Luv a Marine" with jockey Rui Pimentel in the saddle was the first victor of the season. There are 78 race dates this year and post time for the season is 1:30 p.m.

Lots of excitement at opening day

Shortly after the first race of the day, Niagara Falls MPP Kim Craitor could be found on the trackside. He said it's rewarding to know that about five months ago, the track's future was still unclear, but through the hard work of so many others... so much has paid off.

"There's a feeling that the track has been not saved, but revived," said Craitor. He continued by saying there are so many people who benefit from the Racetrack and knowing that will continue for more three years is rather special. "This is a great day for the racing industry and the people of Fort Erie," he added.

As everyone was getting settled in for the opening day, jockeys Mike McMullen and Melanie Pinto could be found getting prepared for their upcoming races.

McMullen said he is looking forward to how the next three seasons will operate and admits there is a potent aroma of positivity in the air at the track.

"I'm looking forward to a healthy and prosperous year," said McMullen, who has been racing in Fort Erie for the last 10 years.

Pinto, who has been racing for three years at the Fort Erie Racetrack, says opening day is a great segue into the entire year-long program that lays ahead.

"I always look forward to the opening of the season...it's always very exciting," she said.

Reinhold Nagel, a fixture at the track that is known for his always in-time rendition of "Call to Post" before every race, is also optimistic the facility has seen the last of its struggles and the new management team put in place will be the result of that.

"This is a great place and if they're looking a little into the future, they'll make this work," said Nagel who began his 49th season on Saturday.

"We'll see what happens in the interim."

Visitors were also treated to live music and food specials throughout the day.

Each thoroughbred race date at the Fort Erie Racetrack starts at 1:30 p.m. every Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. The last race date is Oct. 26.

Local Hairstylists Return from New York City

ADVERTORIAL WRITTEN BY PEGGY THOMPSON

Life is on endless struggle, full of frustrations, but eventually you find a hairstylist you like.
- AUTHOR UNKNOWN

When it comes to their craft, the team at Nino D'Ambra Hair & Aesthetics is never complacent. Nino D'Ambra, Maria Gato and Melissa Warren, renowned for their expert style and colour techniques have earned a solid reputation for their excellence in service and ability to evolve in an ever-changing industry.

Continually educating themselves, business partners, Nino and Maria have just returned from The Studio, New York City's Wella Sebastian Academy where they acquired the skills to create individual identities for their clients, through cutting edge styles and cuts.

Under the guidance of Nick Berardi, former Director, Vidal Sassoon, North America, the business partners enhanced their expertise and have returned home with renewed passion and creativity as architects of hair cutting.

Working smarter through technique, they've brought back many new styles and trends, among them, The Graduated Bob Classic, Back Lift and Modern Layered Bob, all designed to suit your face, age and artistic preferences.

It's not the first time the artistic team has travelled to improve their skills. Both Nino and Maria, Masters in colour with Wella International, took classes at New York City's Tony And Guy TIGI Academy in 2007, and, along with Melissa, continue to travel annually to such cities as Toronto with the aim of introducing what they've learned upon their return.

You deserve the very best treatment. The Nino D'Ambra salon, a full concept Wella Sebastian Day Spa also features Nixxin Scalp Therapy, a prescriptive treatment for thinning hair and hair loss, Eva Garden Cosmetics, Plantagen Skin Care and specializes in Bio Sculpture Gel, a healthier alternative in nail care.

Council welcomes idea of active transportation committee

Delegates at meeting say self-propelled travel creates numerous benefits

Kris Dubé
The Times

There are many other ways of getting to where you need to go, without using a motorized vehicle.

And on Monday night, town council unanimously supported the idea of forming a committee to promote "active transportation" in the community. This term refers to cycling, cross-country skiing, in-line skating and other means of self-propelled travel.

The proposed committee was brought forward at the council-in-committee meeting by health promoter at the Bridges Community Centre Rhonda Barron and Leigh Whyte, who has volunteered to be an inactive member of the committee.

"Active transportation is a key component of a healthy, prosperous community," said Barron.

She also said the committee will provide the best results if it is sanctioned and overseen by the local government, with representatives from council possibly sitting on it.

“Active transportation is a key component of a healthy, prosperous community.”

— Rhonda Barron

"We find ourselves in need of a group structure and we think that will fit in this community, through council," she added.

Barron also said there are many benefits within municipalities that promote active transportation through infrastructure such as paths and streets that accommodate multiple uses.

"It creates desirable communities because it creates less traffic and cleaner air," she said.

Whyte referenced statistics such as 25 per cent of today's children being overweight, claiming that two-thirds of youth across Canada are not as active as they should be.

He feels there is another positive impact that results from having more opportunity for people to travel actively, saying it is a good way for residents to observe what is going on in their neighbourhoods.

"Having people and eyes on the street helps create a healthier safer environment, potentially reducing crime," said Whyte.

Council approved a report on this subject but will still need to endorse a by-law to come to the table soon.

Biking for a big cause

On Tuesday, 13 teams participated locally in the annual Big Bike Fundraiser for the Heart and Stroke Foundation. The most money was pulled in by the team representing Canada Border Services Agency, raising $2,833 with Canadian Niagara Power coming in second place collecting $2,387. Seen here are Nick and Jan Fraser, of the Fort Erie Elementary School team, with bike operator Garry Van Zant. Overall, the event raised $18,665 for the cause.

Youths charged for vehicle break-ins

Police have charged two young males in connection to thefts from a number of vehicles.

In the early morning hours of Apr. 24, a report of a 16-year-old male who had been attempting to commit thefts from cars was responded to by the Niagara Regional Police (NRP).

The male was later released pending further investigation until police were able to identify a second youth who also may have been involved in these bold crimes.

Later, both were arrested and charged with trespass by night and possession of property obtained by crime under $5,000.

Both of the accused were later released to their parents with a future court date.

Under the provisions of the Youth Criminal Justice Act, the suspects cannot be named.

The NRP would like to remind residents to lock their vehicles and remove all valuables in an attempt to ensure they don't become victims of theft.

Anyone who sees suspicious behaviour in their neighbourhoods is also encouraged to contact the police.

Hug a mother this weekend

This is a tribute to mothers all over the world, but since this is a community newspaper...it's more of an homage to local moms.

Tomorrow of course is Mother's Day, a holiday that isn't given the attention it really should.

So, in your travels at the several events taking place around town this weekend, give a hug to every mom you see.

Well, try to keep it to women with children that are friends of yours.

Randomly hugging people you've never met before might get you into some trouble.

But it's easy to get the picture here. Mom's deserve as much praise that you can give them.

One local tradition that always takes place on Mother's Day weekend is the Hooked on Fishing, Not on Drugs Fishing Derby at Windmill Point Park.

This is a great opportunity and past time for young families to enjoy some quality moments with one another. So don't hesitate to load the fishing rods into the minivan and take a short drive to Ridgeway for a great time.

In summary, if your mother is still a part of your life, buy her something nice or take her out for dinner.

Even if this doesn't appeal to her, at least stop by and tell her how much you love her, especially if you don't tell her that often enough.

-Kris Dubé

Do You Remember?

drink from the fountain near the Town Hall. Our thanks to Aunts Anita Kiss and Joan Dunn as well as cousin Linda Ford. The back of this week's photo of three young women offers us no clues. If you know who they are or why they got their picture in the paper, please call the Museum at 894-5322 or send us an email at museum.forterie.on.ca.

McHappy Day brings out personality, all for a good cause

Matt Day
Reporter's Notebook

I've never worked at a fast food place before.

I don't think I could handle the pressure of preparing someone's meal in a matter of seconds before receiving a mouthful of unkind words because I took too long putting the cheese on a hamburger.

That's why when I found out I would be on sign duty for the annual McHappy Day which benefitted Big Brothers Big Sisters on Wednesday, I was more than McHappy enough to go stand outside and wave people in to support the good cause.

Armed with my trusty apron and McDonald's cap, editor Kris Dubé and I were ready to head out onto the street and promote the all-day event.

Our shift started at 10 a.m. and immediately it felt like I had found my true calling in life.

Finally, I was able to put my big mouth and outgoing personality to use.

While Kris used a more laid-back, casual approach, I made no mistake in making sure people knew what was going on.

For every car that had their window down, I serenaded them with a made-up jingle of mine or gave them three good reasons to go inside and support Big Brothers Big Sisters of Fort Erie.

Since McDonald's is on one of the busiest intersections in town, there was no shortage of people and I'm sure a few of you reading this will recognize now who was yelling at you to go inside and buy a Big Mac, Happy Meal or McMuffin sandwich.

Working for the newspaper, my voice is heard a lot through the words I write. It's a lot different though when you're making that interaction with people who are giving you weird stares from the comforts of their car.

That's not to say my tactics didn't work as I saw a few cars pull into the restaurant after I flagged them down.

It's funny how sometimes doing something good brings out your personality more.

I don't think I would be feeling the same way if I actually were to be promoting something other than a good cause.

Knowing what you're doing is making a difference inspires you more to do whatever you can to help that organization or charity.

Our one-hour shift flew by and just as I was getting into the groove out there, our replacements came out and took over on the signs.

My stint as an unofficial fast-food worker was over and I never had to flip one burger.

Maybe next year I'll get the promotion.

If you would like to leave me feedback, call me at 905-871-3100 ext. 208, or email me at mday@forterietimes.com

Family thanks community for support during tough time

Dear Editor,

Several months ago, our family's garage was consumed by an electrical fire, that eventually made its way to the main structure of our home.

It was a passing motorist, Mike Sabesla, who saw the flames billowing out of the garage windows, called emergency services, while pounding on the front door of our home to alert us to the danger.

Most fortunately, there was no loss of life to persons or pets.

Although the property damage was severe and will undoubtedly take months to repair, buildings and their contents can be replaced.

At 3 a.m. on a Sunday morning, we saw our community respond with an outpouring of compassion and concern.

Our neighbours took us into their homes, provided shelter for our pets and gave us clothing, food, shelter and transportation.

Ridgeway IDA, a local pharmacy, even opened its doors on a Sunday so that our family could replace the necessary medication that was lost in the fire.

The firefighters from stations no. 4 and no. 6 arrived within minutes of the initial call and fought the blaze until it was finally extinguished.

We have always felt fortunate to live in the Fort Erie-Ridgeway community but never more so than how we do now, after all the support we were given on that bitter cold Sunday morning.

We won't attempt to recall all the names of those who offered help and support during this crisis because there are too many to mention and we don't want to inadvertently omit anyone.

Thank you all so much and God bless.

Rio Vista Retirees getting back into the swing of things

Dear Editor,

Lovely weather conditions welcomed our Rio Vista Retirees this Wednesday to start their new season for 2010.

These seniors ranging from 55 to 90 years of age are real experts of the game and they are taking advantage of the many benefits golf is giving them.

It was a rather meager turnout of 39 players, but this will soon improve as the word travels.

This first day was a so-called "get acquainted" type of event with the scores not counting for the competition.

All events this year are shotgun starts and will be from the red tees, to give all members a fair chance on the more difficult tee shots.

The new committee consists of John White, Cliff Wilson, Barry

Hopkins, Don Lefurage, and Mike Ker.

The new pro at the course, Chris Keller, has agreed to participate in assisting the committee with the set-up of each event.

As usual there will be a 50/50 draw.

Next Wednesday will be an individual score contest using handicaps.

Celebrating the work of Community Living

May is Community Living Month in Ontario, and while it's important to do so at any time of year, this month motivates Ontarians to reflect on the valued presence and contributions of people who have an intellectual disability in communities.

And the work of Community Living in providing a more progressive, inclusive, and welcoming place to be for all people. This May, Community Living advocates also acknowledge the critical challenges and work ahead to ensure people have equal rights and opportunities as their fellow citizens, and that people continue to have the supports they need to be included and live well in the community.

"We certainly have reasons to celebrate this month," says Maureen Brown, Executive Director. "Just over a year ago, Ontario completed a giant step in the direction of inclusion with the closures of the last three large, government-run institutions for people who have an intellectual disability."

People are now successfully living and participating in Ontario communities; and Canada's recent ratification of the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities is another significant achievement for people in the journey towards enjoying full human rights and social inclusion."

Community Living Fort Erie's work began in Ontario over 50 years ago when families and concerned citizens rejected the idea of institutionalization for their loved ones who had an intellectual disability, and came together to create community alternatives.

Today, people are supported in the community by their family members, friends, and support agencies including 117 local Community Living associations across the province.

PUBLIC NOTICE

(1) TOWN OF FORT ERIE WATER CONSERVATION PROGRAM RAINBARREL SALE

Rainbarrel cubs, locally assembled barrels are made using reclaimed plastics and specially engineered parts. They are the greenest rainwater product available!

These barrels are available in three colours: terra cotta, slate gray and black with a 5-year limited warranty.

Ready to use! Each barrel comes equipped with a standard garden hose spigot, mosquito screen, overflow hose and interconnectivity outlet.

Pre-order your rainbarrel online at www.RainBarrel.ca, click the "Truckload Sale Events" tab and select your event location. Pay online with credit card or reserve your barrel for a cash-4001-pickup order.

Household rainwater collection contributes to sustainable urban living. It reduces the energy used to process stormwater runoff and can save you money by providing a free, natural source of water for lawns and gardens.

Rain barrels will be available at 1 Municipal Centre Drive (Town Hall) in the upper level parking lot for $37.50 each (CASH ONLY) from:

9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. on the following dates:

Saturday, May 8, 2010

Saturday, May 15, 2010

Available onsite on a first-come, first-served basis to those who do not pre-order.

Proof of residency is required. CASH ONLY.

Limited quantities are available.

Mother's Day walk for breast cancer sure to turn heads

Matt Day
The Times

Tom Sheridan is sure to be getting his fair share of puzzled looks on Mother's Day tomorrow... and that's exactly what he wants.

"The more people who look at me and wonder what I'm doing, the more breast cancer awareness is being raised."

Sheridan is taking part in a walk for the disease that affects mostly women beginning at the Peace Bridge in Fort Erie and ending at the CN Tower in Toronto.

What makes his 155 kilometre trek much different from others is that he will be doing it in women's underwear.

It's not that he gets a kick out of wearing a bra and pink shorts, it's because he figures he will gain more attention there raising more money for the cause.

"I'm hoping once people see the decorated truck trailing me they will be intrigued to see what is going on and then donate some money to the cause."

The proud Boston Bruins fan will be sporting a bra in his team's favourite colours - black and gold - for the first leg of the trip and then switching to a new blue and white bra for the Toronto fans he is sure to encounter along his way.

He said the idea came to him after a recent Facebook stunt began with many women posting only colours in their status updates.

Having no idea what was going on, a female friend of his told him that those updates were the colours of the bras each woman was wearing in an effort to raise awareness for Breast Cancer.

"I thought it was such a neat idea and I decided I could use that to do my own fundraising event."

The outgoing St. Catharines resident then decided he would walk in a bra and short shorts down Central Avenue in Fort Erie to raise money.

"But that wasn't good enough," he recalls of the initial plan.

"I had all kinds of people telling me if I did a much longer walk, I would gain so much more support."

So that's what he has decided to do and already Sheridan has close to 4,500 members in his Facebook group he created for the big event beginning tomorrow. Sheridan said when deciding to do this unique walk, he drew no inspiration from having loved ones affected by the disease.

It wasn't until after planning the walk where he got to think about the people in his life who have been affected.

He also draws inspiration from losing his son at the very young age of five months old.

"Since he's passed away I've been doing a lot of thinking as to what I can be doing to help others," he said. "This is my first event, but I don't want it to be my last."

He said upon finishing his grueling walk, he wants to plan a walk for Multiple Sclerosis.

But until that point, this walk is his main thing with his bras being donated by La Senza and fitted to his manly physique, Sheridan is ready for the challenge.

"I hope this isn't just a one time thing. I want to make this an annual event and hopefully in a few years there will be hundreds of guys walking along the highway in bras," he envisioned. "What a sight that would be!"

All funds raised from the event will be turned over to the Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation. People can donate by cash the day of the event or by visiting any Royal Bank branch and donating money to account number 01672 - 101177.

The walk begins at 9 a.m. and will last about 30 hours.

THE FULLY IMPLANTABLE HEARING INSTRUMENT

While this type of hearing instrument certainly may not appeal to everyone, it is worth mentioning that there is a fully implantable hearing system for those who prefer a "discrete" hearing instrument. This "invisible" hearing instrument appeals to those who want to fully conceal the fact that they are wearing a hearing device. The fully implantable mechanism successfully addresses all concerns by offering a device with a microphone that is surgically implanted beneath the skin behind the user's ear. The rest of the implanted device (including battery, digital signal processor, and transducer) processes sounds and transmits them into a mechanical modulator that is delivered to the small bones of the middle ear.

Smile, laugh, talk, listen, and live again with a custom-tailored hearing instrument from HEARSPAN BALANCE & HEARING CLINIC. We pride to provide you with professional services from an audiologist and the hearing device best suited to your individual needs to help improve your quality of life. Do you or someone you love have a hearing impairment? Come see us at 600 Garrison Road, Unit 12 for a comprehensive, business hearing test, the first step toward better hearing. If you'd like to make an appointment, please call us at 905-871-4262.

P.S. The pre-programmed implantable hearing instrument mentioned above is both programmed and rectangular removable.

Family Literacy event

The seventh annual Fort Erie Family Literacy Day was held at the Leisureplex Saturday with plenty of activities for children to take part in including making crafts, climbing in a fire truck, dancing with the Smudge Fundaes and of course sitting down to read with Thomas the Tank Engine like Marie Irwin, Marlon Irwin, Ceydon Kotzian, Liam Kotzian and Felicity Repuska are seen above.

One sweet musical

The cast of Niagara Christian Community of Schools' production of Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory is getting ready for its upcoming musical being held May 12, May 14 and May 15. Tickets are available by calling (905) 871-6980 and the whole community is invited to come watch.

Bricks & Bouquets

If you have a brick or bouquet send it to editorial@forterietimes.com or phone 905-871-3100, ext. 210 and leave a message

Bouquet

To people who understand that sometimes we cannot fit every photo and story into the Times, there are a daughter to be in a few photos that need to be printed still and we will do our best to get them in within the next couple of weeks.

Brick

To the person who called 9-1-1 on a surprise birthday party on Stonemill Road last weekend. We even offered to pay for a hotel room in Niagara Falls for our neighbours as a friendly gesture. There are other real emergencies out there and having the fire department and police come out to something like this is ridiculous.

Bouquet

To mothers everywhere. Happy Mother's Day to all of you and we hope you enjoy yourself.

Brick

A huge brick to the person in the red vehicle who caused my sons and Be patient, there are a daughter to be in a accident on Dominion Road on Saturday. How could you just drive away after pulling out in front of them, causing them to panic, swerve and then hit another vehicle? You are a coward and are very lucky my kids or the people in the other vehicle weren't seriously hurt, but were only very shook up and sore. Thanks to your stupidity and cowardice, my son was charged. You need to come forward and at least apologize.

Bouquet

To businesses that don't place portable signs so close to the road that it impedes the vision of motorists. I'm surprised there aren't more accidents resulting from this.

GARDEN OF THE WEEK - FOR EXCELLENCE IN FRONT YARD CURB APPEAL

Be at your best gardening behavior because you never know when a MYSTERY JUDGE may be in your neighborhood!

(An example of Photo Identification might be) Although this garden is a fictional example and not officially designated as a Garden of the Week, let us say that it is a model of what may catch a mystery judge's eye. It could have a horizontal espalier, an extraordinary fence of growing apple branches along the driveway. The key to success in growing an espalier is patient pruning and training. The slender purple fountain Beech trees make a statement in the design. They, along with the burgundy hues of dwarf Japanese Maple, and a similar color on the trim of the house unite the front yard with the dwelling itself.

GARDEN OF THE WEEK is a program to honor residents, businesses and organizations for their efforts in FRONT YARD CURB APPEAL. It is intended as a fun, informal, non-competitive way to simply enjoy beautiful, creative, unique and well-maintained front yards across Fort Erie.

There isn't any application form. You do not register to participate. MYSTERY JUDGES will search the community for appealing gardens that exemplify the ideals of the Communities in Bloom criteria.

This mysterious approach of awarding a Garden of the Week will hopefully inspire all gardeners and property owners to share the joy and excitement of each others efforts.

"Fort Erie - a Community in Bloom" invites all properties to be on display including residential, institutional, multi-residential, window boxes and planters, commercial and retail any where and everywhere in Greater Fort Erie.

Owners will be asked to consent to the placement of a Garden of the Week sign on their property. GARDEN OF THE WEEK winners will be given special recognition at the Awards Program to be held in August at the Leisureplex.

Anniversaries

Happy 30th Anniversary Earl
Smiling blue eyes and an ear to grin,
That's how I first saw you so that's where I'll begin.
Tight white curls, with a cute little butt,
Another good quality I just couldn't pass up
You had brown wavy hair, which has now gone away.
But just let me tell you I am here to stay!
I have worked so hard to give me what I want.
The beautiful things you gave me, I so proudly flaunt!
Thirty years have flown right by,
I am so happy that you are my girl!
Thank you Earl for picking me
For the rest of our lives, by your side I will be!
Love you forever,
Penny
